Summary

About this Release

The Community Profile Series contains three separate profiles aimed at providing information on key Census characteristics relating to persons, families and dwellings and covering most topics on the Census form. The profiles are excellent tools for researching, planning and analysing small and large geographic areas. They enable comparisons to be made between different geographic areas. The profiles which will be available for the 2016 Census will be: General Community Profile, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Profile, and the Time Series Profile.

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Profile consists of 16 tables containing key Census characteristics of Indigenous persons and households. Some tables provide comparisons with the non-Indigenous population. The data are based on place of usual residence. The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Profile will be released in three phases. First release tables are those tables containing classifications which are easy to process and are available on release day. Second release tables contain Labour Force classifications which require more complex processing and will be available on the second release day. In third release the final geography area for Remoteness will be available.
